

Community Credit Union has a commitment to keep funds working locally by employing people from within the community and by providing Personal and Commercial loans to members and their small businesses. Our profits stay in our communities, reinvested in our local economies. Putting members first is our credit union's number one priority. That means that instead of looking for ways to maximize profits for shareholders, Community Credit Union is always looking for ways to help our members make the most of their finances.

Our structure is different from other financial institutions. The users of our services (our members) are also the owners. As customer-owners, credit union members have equal voting rights and participate in the decisions affecting the credit union, regardless of their deposit balance or volume of business. While our structure is unique, we do provide products and services that are compatible with those offered by other financial institutions. In fact, our credit union offers all the services you would expect from a financial institution—chequing, savings, loans, mortgages, RRSPs, RRIFs, ATM, telephone and Internet banking, investment services and financial planning.
